SoIL Sommerworkshop

Val Higby, Normal West High School

On June 28th these raucous German teachers (pictured below) came together in Metamora to share, learn and grow!

Sad you missed it?
Read on for a glimpse of the day and some insightful ideas to use in your own classroom this year!

Val Higby started the afternoon with a hands-on demonstration of how teachers can create their own breakout boxes on the cheap!

Kory Carter shared how the use of graphic design tips and tricks can be both practical, time saving and beneficial to our students.

Jenny Robins explained how a virtual exchange can be brought to life, and walked us through her successful process that connected University High school in Champaign and Oberschule in den Sandwehen in Bremen.

Ingrid Zeller, from Northwestern University and our keynote speaker for the afternoon, made teaching with short films possible!

From classics like Schwarzfahrer, to contemporary Aussteig Rechts, to the thought provoking Tagessuppe, we all left feeling like we too could teach relevant topics (social justice, equity, inclusivity to name a few) with the use of short films as a tool.
